JOHN G. ALLEYNE,
JAMES ALLEYNE,
THOMAS W. O'NEAL,
JOS. W. JORDAN,
and

THE Minutes of the last Meeting were ordered to be read.

Mr. Hinds came into the House and took his seat.

When the Clerk came to that part of the Minutes respecting Mr. Sullevan's motion for Thanks to Lt.-Colonel Best, Mr. Sullevan rose and expressed himself as follows:—

"Mr. Speaker—Allow me, Sir, to explain a motion made by me at our last sitting, which, as it now stands, neither does justice to my own feelings nor to the merits of a set of men who deserve well of their Country. I moved a vote of Thanks to Colonel Best exclusively, I am told;—if I did so, the omission proceeded from that inadvertency and embarrassment incidental to an unpractised Speaker; and I eagerly embrace this opportunity publicly to declare, that I meant by my motion to convey the high sense which this House entertains of the services of the Officers and privates of Christ Church Battalion, and of their Commanding Officer, Colonel Best. Fortune bestowed upon this Gentleman an opportunity to distinguish himself, and he did not suffer it to be lost. But who were the instruments of his success? Assuredly, the troops he commanded. I, Sir, have been the lowest Officer in the Christ Church Battalion, and I have also had the honor to be the highest Officer in it; and the remembrance of that connexion from its commencement to its termination, will ever be associated in my mind with ideas of pleasure and happiness.—Did not, then, a sense of justice urge me to pay the well-merited tribute of praise to the gallant exertions of this Battalion, gratitude and affection to my old comrades would compel me to do it."

Lieut.-Colonel Best said, that he had great pleasure in hearing an explanation of his colleague and friend, Colonel Sullivan, as he felt the liveliest interest in whatever concerned the honour and credit of his Corps.

The Minutes were confirmed.

The Speaker informed the House, that he had, in obedience to their directions, conveyed to Colonel Codd the Thanks of the House to him and to the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates of the Garrison of Saint Ann's, and that he had received an answer from the Colonel, which, if the House pleased, he would have read, together with his letter to Colonel Codd; which being ordered, were read as follows:—

Bay Plantation, Aug 8, 1816

SIR—By order of the House of Assembly, in a full House, when every Member was present, I have the honor of transmitting to you the unanimous and grateful Thanks of the House to you, and to the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates, of the Garrison of St. Ann's, for the eminent services rendered by you and them to this Country, by speedily and without waste of blood putting a stop to the late dangerous Insurrection of the Slaves, which, in its commencement, threatened the destruction of the Island—I cannot do justice to the high opinion which the House of Assembly entertain of your conduct, without conveying it to you in their own language. I therefore enclose copies of the Votes of Thanks, and request that you will be pleased to communicate the Thanks of the House to the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates, of the Garrison of St. Ann's. The sentiments expressed in these Votes are not confined to the House of Assembly—as far as my observations go, they are the sentiments of every Member of the Community.

Having long had the honor of your acquaintance, and no stranger to your exemplary conduct at the different times that you have been stationed in this Island, and being also an eye-witness to the promptitude and zeal with which you marched against the Insurgents, I beg leave to assure you, Sir, that I feel most highly flattered and gratified that it has fallen to my lot to be the instrument of handing to you this Testimony of the regard and good opinion of the Inhabitants of this Country.

I have the honor to be, with the highest esteem, Sir, your most faithful and obedient servant,

JOHN BECKLES,
Speaker of the House of Assembly.

To Colonel Codd, &c. &c. &c.

"Resolved—That the Thanks of this House be given to Edward Codd, Esq. Colonel in His Majesty's Army, Lt.-Colonel of the 2d Batt. 60th Regt. of Foot, Commandant of the Garrison of St. Ann's, and General of the Militia of this Island, for the great and important services which he rendered to this Island during the late unfortunate Rebellion of the Slaves; for his prompt and decisive measures, his vigilant and unremitted exertions, and his judicious arrangement of the Forces under his command, by which good order, tranquillity, and security, were in a short time restored; as well as for his humane interference, whereby all unnecessary effusion of human blood was prevented

"Resolved—That the Thanks of this House be given to the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates, of St. Ann's Garrison, for the prompt, spirited, and efficient aid rendered to the Inhabitants of this Island, during the late calamitous Insurrection of the Slaves."

St. Ann's, Barbados, 9th Aug 1816

SIR—I have had the honor to receive your letter dated yesterday, conveying to myself, the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates, of this Garrison, the very flattering opinion which the House of Assembly has been pleased to express of our services during the late Insurrection of the Slaves; and I beg you will assure the House, that we sensibly feel and gratefully acknowledge this high distinction.

The House of Assembly has much overrated my own efforts on that occasion;—prompt and energetic measures seemed to me necessary, and they were adopted, equally to suppress the Insurgents, and to spare the effusion of the blood of those who, from delusion, had been excited to acts of rebellion by mischievous persons.

The expression of your own good opinion will ever be remembered by me with gratitude, and the favourable sentiments which you assure me so generally prevail in this Community, cannot but (and really does) prove highly satisfactory to my feelings.

I have the honor to be, with the highest respect, Sir, your much obliged, humble servant,

EDWARD CODD, Col

The Hon. John Beckles,
Speaker of the House of Assembly.

Mr. Mayers, as Chairman of the Committee appointed at the last Meeting to prepare an Address in Answer to the Governor's Speech, presented the same, which (by order) was read in these words:—

"To His Excellency Sir James Leith, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, His Majesty's Captain-General, Governor, and Commander in Chief of this Island, Chancellor, Ordinary, and Vice Admiral of the same.

"May it please your Excellency,

"We the Representatives of the People of this Island in General Assembly assembled, beg leave to return your Excellency our Thanks for the Speech which you were graciously pleased to make to the Legislature at the last Meeting.

"Although we cannot but regret, in common with your Excellency, the calamities under which a part of this Island has lately suffered, we join with you in the hope that the tranquillity of the Colony is now firmly established.

"We beg leave to assure your Excellency, that we never can lose the deep sense which we entertain of your Excellency's personal exertions in removing the delusion under which the unhappy and misguided slaves were led into the commission of the late enormities, and in strengthening their minds against the artful misrepresentations of mischievous and designing persons. We recollect, with feelings of the deepest sorrow, the necessary punishments which the offended laws inflicted upon these unhappy victims, but trust that the entire exposition which your Excellency has given to the Slave Population, of their condition, has restored and will secure the permanent tranquillity of the Island.

"The liberal conduct of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, in unanimously adopting the suggestion of the advocates of the Colonies, imperiously demands from this and from every other Colony, that they should give their earliest and most serious consideration, with a view to their improvement, to the state of their legislative enactments; and as soon as we have obeyed the more urgent calls of business which press heavily upon us, our attention will be turned to the revision of the Statute Book of Barbados.

"The Laws which relate to the formation of a Militia for the security of the Colony, and to the free people of colour, demand and shall obtain our most serious consideration; and we beg leave to assure your Excellency, that no means shall be left unattempted on our part to improve the condition and confirm the happiness of the Slave Population of this Island.

"To those who enjoy the benefits of the Christian dispensation, nothing could be more gratifying than to extend those advantages to every quarter of the globe, and the happiest results might be expected from impressing on the minds of the slaves the mild duties and the spirit of obedience inculcated by that religion.

"As soon as the Estimates which your Excellency has directed to be prepared, of the expences which have been incurred by the advice of His Majesty's Privy Council, for quartering the troops, are laid laid before us, we will apply ourselves to the consideration of the means of providing for those, and what further expences it may be deemed advisable to incur.

"Provision shall also be made for meeting whatever other expences may have been unavoidably incurred during the late calamitous circumstances, and for upholding such establishments as may be found necessary for the internal security of the Colony

"The zealous and active exertions of His Majesty's Forces demand from this House their most grateful acknowledgments, yet we cannot but indulge in feelings of the proudest self congratulation, when we contemplate the anxious and unremitted co-operation of our native constitutional force.

"We recognise, with grateful thanks, the hand of Providence, shewn as well in the speedy and entire suppression of the late dangerous insurrection, as in the ample return which the present year has realized, and the succeeding promises to our agricultural labours.

"Confiding in the experience of the past, we have the firmest reliance on your Excellency's constant attention to the promoting the interest of this Island, maintaining the just rights of the Parent State, and fulfilling the high Authorities with which you are invested, to the reciprocal benefit of Great Britain and this Colony."

The Address was agreed to, and Mr. Speaker, by the direction of the House, signed the same, and it was sent up to His Excellency by Mr. Jordan and Mr Cobham.

Mr. Mayers moved, that an Answer should be sent to His Excellency the Governor's Message of the 6th and 7th inst. which being agreed to, the following answer was prepared and sent up to His Excellency by Mr. Jordan and Mr Cobham:—

"The House of Assembly respectfully informs His Excellency the Governor, that they received his several Messages of the 6th and 7th instant, which they will avail themselves of the earliest opportunity to take into consideration."

Mr. Pinder rose and said—

"Mr. Speaker—It is, no doubt, in the recollection of this House, that almost at the close of the existence of the last, a Bill was sent down from the Council, which had passed that Board, repealing the Manumission Act, passed by the Legislature during the Administration, and on the recommendation of Lord Seaforth. The Bill did not then obtain the concurrence of the House of Assembly, in consequence of there being an opinion, I believe, entertained by some of the Members, that it would be, perhaps, better to permit Manumissions without any deposit money at all; and the question was at that time laid aside, until Gentlemen should make up their minds on it. In the mean time, that House of Representatives expired.—I was not, Sir, amongst the number of those who entertained any doubt as to the propriety of the projected repeal, precisely in the form in which it came down from the Council; and I therefore took the first opportunity afforded me by the meeting of a new House of Assembly to give effect to the measure, by asking and obtaining its leave to introduce a fresh Bill for the purpose. Experience, the best if not the only proper test of the wisdom or impolicy of all legislative enactments, has taught us, that the present Manumission Act, so far from having the good effect proposed by it, has been productive of much evil, inasmuch as it has inundated the Colony with persons freed under the Seals of Mayors of different Corporations in the United Kingdom, many of whom, I will venture to assert, would have been freed under the law which I propose now to renew, had it continued in force, and not have been superseded by the other; whilst not more, probably, than fifteen to twenty persons have been manumitted under the present Bill. That there should be a sum of money deposited on the executing a Manumission Deed, I think highly proper. Without some such restriction, Sir, the inhuman Slave Owner, if any such there be, may, by a stroke of his pen, exonerate himself from the trouble and expence of sustaining, in helpless old age, the slave by whose strength and labour he had formerly profited, and cast him for support upon the most precarious of all means of human subsistence, the eleemosynary bounty of others.—In this form, therefore, I have had the Bill drawn, which I now submit to the consideration of the House, and move that it be read." And his motion being seconded by Mr. Jordan, the same was read.

Mr. Mayers, Mr. Best, and Mr. Jordan, offered some observations on the subject of the Bill.

Mr. Pinder moved that the Bill be read a second time; but being opposed by Mr. Robert James Haynes, who was seconded by Mr. Williams, the question was by order put on the second reading, when the Members voted as follows:—

For the second reading—Mr. Pinder, Mr. Jordan, Mr. Mayers, Mr. Cobham, Mr. O'Neal, Mr. Leacock, Mr. Best, Mr. Nurse, Mr. Skinner, Mr. Sullevan, Mr. Hinds, Mr. Haynes, Mr. Speaker.

Against the second reading—Mr. Williams, Mr. Robert James Haynes, Mr John G. Alleyne, Mr. Jas. Alleyne, Mr. Adamson, Mr. Lord, Mr. Hunte, and Mr. George Williams.

The majority of the Members being in favour of the second reading, the Bill was accordingly read. The same was then read a third time and passed the House; the Members who voted against the second reading of the Bill also voted against passing it.

Mr. Mayers rose, and after expressing himself in terms of commendation of the very liberal and feeling manner in which His Excellency the Governor had refused to accept the settlement of £4000 a year, voted to him at the first sitting of the House, said that he had prepared another Bill, making the sum only £3000 a year, agreeably to the wishes of His Excellency, who had declared that he would not accept a larger sum from the Country in its present distressed state, owing to the calamitous consequences of the Slave Insurrection, & he moved that it be read; and his motion being seconded by Mr. Pinder, the Bill was read a first, second, and third time, and passed the House unanimously, and was directed to be delivered over to the Clerk of the Council, to be laid before them; which was accordingly done.

Mr. Mayers, agreeably to leave granted him at the last Meeting, introduced a Bill for the better Ordering of the Militia of this Island, and moved that it be read; which being seconded by Mr. Pinder, the same was read as far as the 14 h clause, when Mr. Pinder moved that the House be adjourned; and the same being agreed to—

The House, at a quarter after four o'clock in the afternoon, was adjourned, to meet the next morning at ten o'clock, at this place.

BRIDGE-TOWN.

"Sit mihi fas audita loqui,"—et quæ ad Rempublicam pertinent in lucem proferre.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

HIS Majesty's ship Antelope, bearing the Flag of Admiral Harvey, arrived yesterday.

Also the Mackay Mail-boat, Carter, last from St. Vincent.

Entered at the Custom-house—Brigs Amelia, from Boston; Sir John T Duckworth, Bermuda.

Cleared—Brigs Robert Quayle, for Liverpool; Lavinia, New-Brunswick; and schooner Waterloo, Porto Rico.

DEMERARY, Aug. 28, 1816.

By the schooner Caledonia, arrived on Monday evening from Angustura, we learn, that the predatory system of warfare hitherto carried on between the Royalists and Independents in the neighbourhood of that city, continues with unabated fury. The army of the latter party, composed of 5000 men, has recently obtained some very important advantages over their opponents; whose numbers, from being perpetually harassed, were reduced to 700, 200 of whom were horse. The infantry were stationed in the vicinity of the town, and the cavalry a few leagues in advance, in order to check the further progress of the patriots, who being very indifferently provided with the munitions of war, were unable to bring the contest to a decisive issue. In consequence of these unfavourable operations to the royal cause, an embargo had been laid on all vessels in the port of Angustura (except British), with a view, it is supposed, of facilitating the escape of the royal troops, in the event of the patriots gaining possession of the place. The British, it appears, are allowed to trade without being molested by either party. We have no further accounts of General Morillo, nor of General Bolivar's expedition; the last advices left the latter advancing, with a victorious army, upon the city of Caraccas, where there was no force adequate to make a stand against him, the whole having proceeded with Morillo to Santa Fé.—The obscurity in which the operations of Bolivar remains, is easily accounted for:—The interior of the country being solely in the occupation of the patriots, all communication between the royalist posts is entirely cut off. Like the French in old Spain, during the Peninsular war, they only possess the ground on which they stand.

ADVICE TO SHIP-MASTERS.—In order to have good clear water at sea, it is only necessary to put into each cask about a spoonful of quick lime, to stir it well, and the next day to add about a teaspoonful of pulverised alum. If your water should be offensive to the smell, a little more lime should be added and if very muddy, add a little more alum. By this operation the very worst water is sweet and clear in a few days. Fowls have a natural appetite for animal food, and if deprived of it will pick and kill each other. Every time you kill a fowl, take his head and feet, chop them small, and throw them into the coops. A few vegetables, especially onions, chopped small, will be very serviceable. Contrary to general opinion, fowls should have as much fresh water as they will drink. By these means you may have much finer fowls at sea, than are common on shore.

TALES AND TALE BEARERS.—It was a maxim of David Ancillon, a celebrated Minister of the Reformed Church, "that little credit was to be given to tales and tale-bearers; saying, that reports are never so pure but they always savour of the passions of those who make them; and that it is with them as with waters, which always retain the quality of the veins of the earth or minerals through which they run."

INSTITUTIONS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE POOR.

Though we were the first almost of the Papers which warmly protested against the present practice of calling every thing before the bar of the Legislature, and though we must repeat that this practice equally degrades the dignity of the law, and insensibly, but very certainly, diminishes the stock of what may be termed our domestic liberty, we did not extend this objection to the bill recently before the House for the encouragement and protection of Saving Banks and Friendly Societies. In the last debate upon this subject, the Chancellor of the Exchequer intercepted the further progress of the intended Act, stating, as his reason, that Government had received a very serious application from an important quarter. He did not state what quarter, but as the objection is rather extraordinary, and throws an additional light upon the present state of the country, we shall supply this omission.

The fact (as we believe it to be) is, that the country bankers remonstrated in a body against the intended encouragement to these institutions, being of opinion, and certainly very justly, that they would occasion all their small customers to withdraw their deposits, and to transfer them to a fund, where they could have the benefit of compound interest. In ordinary circumstances, the principle of compound interest is equally unintelligible and impracticable by the poor. No one can make compound interest of a pound. But when single pounds, as in these banks, are added together, and brought in one sum into the funds, the principle becomes intelligible, the application easy, and the advantage manifest.

Another fact appears to us to require a very serious consideration, and is probably part of the representation which has been made to Government. Every one accustomed to calculation, knows the astonishing power of this principle of Compound Interest, when applied regularly, and without intermission, even upon the smallest sums, during any long period of years. A familiar instance of it is to be found in all our books of arithmetic, most of which contain a calculation, that a penny, put out to such interest at the birth of our Saviour, would by this time have accumulated to a sum, which a solid ball of gold of the diameter of the earth would not pay. Now if two or three millions of pounds (no excessive calculation for the savings of a whole country) be put out to this interest, and by the encouragement and provision of Law be secured in the hands of Corporations who will watch over its regular and invariable application, let us ask what may not be expected from the effects,—what a vast sum will the payment of the compound interest require, and whence is it to come? Whence are the millions upon millions, which will accumulate upon this principle in an hundred years, be paid; and what strange confusion will it not produce in all the present system with respect to money, the public funds, &c.? We confess that this objection (which has casually suggested itself to our minds) induces in us a very serious alarm; and almost changes, or at least entirely suspends, the prejudice which we had taken in favour of the intended Act.

The withdrawing of the Bill for the present Sessions appears to us to be a matter of very commendable prudence in the Minister and Parliament, and is a farther proof of what we have frequently asserted, that in no Assembly in the world is there any approach to the practical wisdom, and deliberate prudence, of the British House of Commons. But as the effect of this suspension of the protection of the Legislature, is to leave all such Institutions to the will, the caprice and the ignorance (we do not speak offensively) of the Public, we deem it a duty to submit some points, which, in their dealings with these Saving Banks, our friends would do well to remember:—

1. The object of these banks, or rather the business of these banks, is, or should be, three-fold,—in the first place, the secure deposit of small savings,—and secondly, the regular transference of these sums, when amounting to a certain sum, to the public Funds,—and thirdly, the regular receipt of the dividends, and the regular application of them upon the principle of compound interest.

2. The first subject of examination, therefore, when any plan of these banks is before you, or when you are about to deposit with any one, is, how far their printed plan is sufficient for these objects,—namely, first, what is the security,—secondly, by what means the managers are compelled, that is to say, cannot avoid, the regular transference of the public Funds,—and thirdly, what means are provided to enable you to assure yourself, upon proof, that the dividends are received and applied upon the principle of compound interest to the benefit of the Institution.

3. Upon the first and most important point,—that of the security of the Saving Bank, the intended applicant would act prudently in examining, name by name, the list of the managing and superintending committee; and in this examination, to make the necessary distinction between the mere Patrons and the Committee. The Patrons, for example, the Royal Family, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Chancellor, &c. are of course in no way responsible as securities for the concern; they merely give their names to it as to a charitable Institution, and perhaps know nothing more of it than that its professed object is in relief and aid. The securities are the managing and superintending committee. If any of these are public characters,—Members of Parliament, London Bankers of established credit, &c. it is sufficient—if not, then no one could prudently trust them with his money except upon his own personal knowledge of them and their property.

4. The due management of the money—the transference of it, upon reaching a sum certain, to the public funds, and the due receipt and application of the dividends, can only be insured by a judicious plan for the institution, and by a regular and assiduous execution of it both by the Committee who manage and by the Committee who superintend, and from time to time investigate. How far the plan of any proposed Saving Bank may be adapted to ensure these purposes, every one may judge by an attentive perusal and consideration of it. Or a surer, and certainly easier judgment may be formed, by comparing the proposed plan with the plans of other Banks already tried and proved—for example, with the plans of the Southampton and Bath Saving Banks.

In some of our future papers, we shall return to the consideration of this subject, and by the comparison of several plans, endeavour to point out what we regard to be the best suited to towns and villages. As a guard against speculators, we have deemed it necessary to give the above cautions.
